When Uniformed Officers Entered Erstwhile Gallants Fled From Their Screaming and Fainting Companions.

New York, Aug. 1-No such wholesale raid of well-dressed men and women has been recorded in the Tenderloin under the present administration as that which closed up the Tivoli in West Thirty-lifth street tonight and landed 200 men and women in the West Thirtieth Street Station. Seven patrol wagons made trips between the brilliantly lighted resort from 11.20 o'clock until midnight.

Captain Thomas and forty of his men made the raid. The place was full, an orchestra was playing, and waiters were serving drinks when the Captain and his men in uniform entered. At once, in the men to plain clothes, who had been scattered sprang to their feet and displayed their

All the women were arrayed in expensive finery, and sleeves and low-cut bodices of almost transparent material were the rule Many wore diamonds and much jewelry. Captain Thomas went through the place, which is a large half, luxuriously fitted up, and arrested everybody, except the one man most desired—Ackron, the proprietor. Ackron has kept out of the jurisdiction of the police for three or four days, ever since he learned that a warrant for assault was Chief Devery announced early in the day that "The Tivoli must be closed" and the raid was not anexpected. The women were nervous all the evening, and several of the more hardened of the tenderloin habitues kept close to the door all night. Others, who had received no intimation of the general demand for the Tivoli's suppression—a demand which the police at last have compiled with—were taken unawares. These women were the ones who screamed and wept.

Raid Made Theatrical.

Many of the male prisoners were evidently prosperous business men of middle life. All sorts of false names were given at the police station.

The raid was the most theatrical ever made in the Tenderloin. Old-timers all said so. Captain Thomas marched at the head of his man an Sacrath avenue to Thirty.

Captain Thomas marched at the head of his men up Seventh avenue to Thirty-fith street and then to the door of the nee so quickly that no one had a chance run in and warn the crowd. The Captain fit five detectives and a roundsman at the doors and exits and then entered.

In almost no time word spread all over the Broadway and Sixth avenue district, and Thirty-fith street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, was packed with people when the patrol wagons started on their trips. The prisoners were greeted with derisive hoots and yells. Another crowd, numbering 1.000, gathered around the police station.

Captain Thomas's entrance was dramatic. He was in full uniform, and when he had marched his men inside, he took a position in the middle of the hall and glared around him for a full minute. Everybody was frightened, and when the Captain had satisfied himself of this, he exclaimed, theatrically:

Marquis Anton Tacoli Declined a Challenge Because the Laws of His Country and Church Forbade Dueling.

Vienna, Aug. 1.-(Copyright, 1900, by W. R. Hearst.)-The Marquis Anton Tacoli has just been dismissed from the army, deprived of his rank of Chamberlain to the Emperor. banished from court and expelled from the principal clubs here under such extraordinary circumstances that little else is spoken of here.

The newspapers refer to the case guardedly, because the honor of a member of the imperial family is involved. The Marquis whose father is a Privy Councilor, a General and Grand Marshal of the Court of Archduchess Adelzonde, widow of the sovereign Duke of Modena, took upon himself to defend one of the younger Archdukes, Leopold by name, when the latter was being referred to in a elighting manner by a Captain of Hussars. The Archduke in question has a deplorable reputation, and his conduct was such that when the heir apparent, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, made his trip around the world, he declined to permit the young man to accompany him beyond Bombay, re- the latter.

fusing to travel any longer in his company. Hot words ensued between the two of ficers, the one insisting that all he had said about the Archduke was true, while the Marquis denounced him as a liar, where upon he was promptly challenged to fight a duel at ten paces with pistols.

The Morquis first refused to fight on the ground that his opponent was a liar and insulter of the imperial family. The matter was then brought before the officers of his regiment, the Fifteenth Hussars, who leclared that he must accept the challenge The Marguis then declared that inasmuel as dueling was forbidden both by the Catholic Church, to which he belonged, and by the law of the land, he would not fight. A court of honor, composed of the officers of the cavalry brigade to which he to-longed, was then organized, which sentenced him to be deprived of his commis-sion as having shown the white feather and being, therefore, unworthy to associate with officers and gentlemen.

The Emperor has ratified the finding of the court and deprived the Marquis of his commission, the treatment thus accorded to the champion of Archduke Leopold being regarded as a sort of imperial reflection on the latter.

Sir David Wilson, resident Governor of the Colony, was maltreated by a mob, and but for timely asistance from the Colonial Guard would have met death at the hands of the infuriated populace.

Not waiting for a renewal of the popuar indignation, Governor Wilson hurriedly arranged his affairs, went on board the Mexican war vessel Saragossa, and sailed for Vera Cruz, whence he started for the Mexican capital to meet President Diaz. Servants and guards finally got the Governor inside the palace and a truce was patched up with the crowd. Later, the Colonial Guard conducted the Governor from the official palace to his

An operation was performed, from the effects of which the young man did not raily.

Friends of Mr. Kissel thought he had been married on last Thursday. A former sweetheart, Miss Grace Branch, was married Thursday to Edmund Carrington. Mr. Carrington bore a remarkable resemblance to Kissel, and when the pictures of the young couple appeared in the papers, that of Carrington was mistaken by many for Kissel, and this was how the impression gained ground, Friday many of these friends called on Kissel, and, notwithstanding his persistent denials, insisted on congratulating him. That night he was stricken with the illness which resulted in his death. He was 24 years old.

New York Market Gossip.

The following synopsis of the gossip in re-ard to the leading features of the New York arket was received by D. R. Francis, Bro. & Co.; New York, Aug. L-Lendon's trading amounted market was received by D. R. Francis, Bro. & Co.:

New York, Aug. L.—London's trading amounted to nearly 10,600 shares, a majority of which were handled by one house. Most of the transactions were purchases. The disposition was to buy B. & O. and sell Union Pacific.

The rise in B. & O. began after Union Pacific had had most of its advance. Popper & Stern were the principal buyers. A meeting to act on a common stock dividend will be held to-morrow afternoon, the outcome of which all the directors have agreed to refuse to discuss. Heretofore several directors have said that a semiannual 2 per cent would be declared. It is expected in prominent banking circles that an important change in ordicial personnel is to be made soon, if not to-morrow.

The early decline in Sugar was on the sale of 1,500 shares by a house which generally confines its operations to bonds. An advance of 2 per cent from the lowest followed, the stock being bid up by Wormser brokers. The recovery was partly due to the statement of American Company's sales agent that the company would not follow the Arbuckle cut.

There was pressure to sell American Hoop, on a statement that that company was selling its products all the lowest prices of the year. The selling was supposed to be for a professional operator, who undertook a built campaign in all the steel stocks a menth ago. Republican preferred was offered down by a room trader on seller's sixty options. The usually more active members of the group, Federal Steel, A. S. & W. and T. C. & I., were comparatively neglected, although strong.

Dealings in the Grangers were scattered, and apparently their firmness was mercial to pool operations, in default of other explanations. I. & S. Wormser bought and bid up B. R. T. in the absence of desire to sell. The movement had no apparent connection with news concerning the forthcoming annual report.

Confirmation of a reported cut in prices by the American Steel those to define in the last hour. An order was placed in the market to sell republic preferred a hour. An order was placed in the market to sent Republic preferred and common, apparently at the market. A general decline in the whole group of Steel shares followed, which was prominent enough to affect quotations on the en-tire list.

Specialists in American Tobacco expressed the tre list.

Specialists in American Tobacco expressed the opinion that the market was actively manipulated. There were dealings in 1,000 share lots at the even figures, but almost nothing done at the fractions.

London cables were as follows:
London cables were as follows:
London, 1:45 p. m.—Conditions in financial circles still reflect uncertainty regarding the Chinese embrogalo and the monetary outlook. Consols are 15 per cent lower for both account. In the American department the dividend declaration on Union Facific common and the very favorable figures of operations of the system for the year have fallen flat. Prices of American railway shares are barely steady at declines of taging below the closing bid figures of yesterday. Buriness is very light.

London, evening—The market for Americans closed on the curb lower and inactive, with very light interest manifested. Other departments closed steady, but without feature.

The Paris Bourse was quiet and the Berlin Boerse firm.

Advices in regard to cotton were as follows: Cotton in Liverpool closed 1 point lower than yesterday on futures and 3.22d on spots. This market ruled weak on Aug., owing to notices of delivery for about 7,000 bales foreign longs in that position to liquidate. New crep deliveries are heavy, owing to continued favorable weather for the crep. It is said that the cotton to be tendered against notices issued to-day will be low grade, too low to ship to Europe, but this report may have been started to help scare out hablers.

FESTIVAL OF PORTIUNCULA NOW BEING CELEBRATED.

SPECIAL SERVICES IN CATHO-LIC CHURCHES.

Three in St. Louis Enjoy the Privilege of Conferring the Plenary Indulgence.

The festival of Portiuncula was begun to three Catholic churches in this city yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. At the same hour the festival was opened in Catholic communities throughout the world. Thousands of the plous flocked to the churches where the portiuncula indulgences could be obtained.

The privilege is granted from the first vespers on August 1 until sunset on the day following.

In St. Louis three churches enjoy the privilege of conferring the pienary indulgence. In churches of the orders founded by St. Francis of Assisi throughout the world the indulgence may be obtained. These communities have had the privilege since the founding of the indulgence by that in the year 121. Later the granted the privilege to parish churches in places where there were no Franciscan chapels or churches.

The occasion will be celebrated at St. Anthony's Church, Meramec street and Compton avenue, which is in charte of the Franciscan Monks, with a high mass this morning, at which a German and an English sermon will be preached. At 7 o'clock there will be benediction of the blessed sacra-ment. The other churches are St. Teresa's, No. 2413 North Grand avenue, and the Church of St. Mary of Victory, at Third and Gratiot streets. At these two churches there will be the regular masses in the morning and benediction at 7 p. m. The indulgence of portioncula does not differ essentially from any other plenary indusence, but it enjoys some especially desirable prerogatives. The indusence does not consist in the forgiveness of the guilt of sin, but like all other includences, in the remission of the temporal punishment due to it. To obtain the indusence one must approach worthly the sacraments of penance and communion, then visit one of the churches to which the muligence is attached and say certain prayers. NEWS OF THE CHURCHES.
